Five ways to celebrate All Saints Day at home by Tim Brown from Living Lutheran.

When I was a parish pastor, I always felt especially blessed to celebrate a festival day when it fell on a Sunday. This is one of those years for one of my favorite festivals: All Saints Day.

All Saints Day (Nov. 1) and All Souls Day (Nov. 2) are ancient feast days in the history of the church. A day for commemorating the faithfully departed has dotted the liturgical calendar from early on in Christian history, but originally it was probably celebrated early in the spring, on the heels of Easter. As Christianity spread to people with pre-Christian ideas, All Saints Day was scheduled directly after All Hallow's Eve to meld with other pagan festivals in other lands.

In Roman Catholic, Anglican and Orthodox communities, All Saints Day is reserved for those recognized and formally canonized by the church as having led exceptional lives. All Souls Day, then, is a day reserved for honoring any of the faithfully departed.

We Lutherans, with our penchant for blurring the line between sinner and saint, usually observe both festivals together, honoring the whole communion of saints who surround us as a cloud of witnesses—those canonized and those just held in our hearts and picture albums. Remember, when we honor the faithfully departed, even more so we honor the God who has trampled death. God is the focus of every All Saints Day celebration, and the lives of the departed are lenses through which we can see God's love in action.

Many Christians throughout the United States won't find themselves within a sanctuary this Nov. 1, but there are many meaningful ways to observe All Saints Day at home. Here are five of them.

- Pictures and candles - When I was a parish pastor, we'd encourage everyone to bring in photos of people in their lives who had passed on, to display on tables and steps around the sanctuary. In front of each photo, we'd light a small votive candle, illuminating the face in the photo throughout the service as a symbol of the light they were in life and the light they shine even now.
- Food and familiar smells - My grandmother made the best fried chicken. I can still picture her standing over the cast iron skillet (which I now own), frying chicken carefully, timing it by sight and smell. She never used a clock for anything; she just knew in her gut when things were ready. Use All Saints Day to make a favorite meal once cooked by someone whom you love but who is no longer with you.
- Stories and song Did your parents or grandparents have a favorite genre of music? Was there a story told at every family gathering? Today is the perfect day to listen intentionally to that music or pass along that family lore to children, partners or anyone willing to hold the space and the day with you. Laugh and cry along to those words that moved your ancestors. All Saints Day is also a wonderful day to search the web for spiritual songs of the church that have passed the test of time. "For All the Saints" (Evangelical Lutheran Worship 422) is a standard offering, but "Faith of Our Fathers" (ELW 813) and "For All the Faithful Women" (ELW 419) are also excellent choices.
- 圣人研究 Take the day to do a little research on a saint. Popular saints such as Saint Francis, Saint Clare or Saint Julian of Norwich are wonderful options, but if you're open to learning about someone you may not know much about, Saint Kevin of Glendalough, Saint Moses the Black and Saint Lily of the Mohawks are sure to fill your spirit and imagination with new inspiration.
- Postcard from the past One of the honest realizations about All Saints Day is that one day we will all be remembered by someone on this holy day. As the beautiful canticle reminds us, "All of us go down to the dust" (ELW 223). Take this day to write a postcard to a younger relative, noting some of the beauty you see in the world, giving a nod to your favorite music and perhaps even telling a simple memory or two that have shaped your life. We can't escape the grave, beloved, but we can surely plant seeds of memory for those who will come after us.

Experience Advent with the Scriptures that inspire Christmas.

In Voices of Advent, Matthew L. Skinner leads readers through biblical texts and explores how they shape our lives and Christmas celebrations. We listen as Jesus promises to return to us in the future, to John the Baptist as he prepares the way for the Messiah, to the faithful people and poets who anticipate the magnificence of Jesus's birth, and to the angels and visionaries who praise God when Christmas dawns. Listen carefully to the Bible's various perspectives that shape our preparations for Christmas; you'll hear hope in all of them. Voices of Advent helps readers experience Advent not only as the start of the Christian Church Year, but also as the powerful overture that sets the tone for the incredible story of Jesus.

Deacon Jodi will be leading an Advent Bible Study on the book of "Voices of Advent" by Matthew Skinner on four Sundays – November 16, 23, 30 and December 7 at 9:15 AM. You can order a book directly through Amazon or at <https://www.abingdonpress.com>

November Alter Guild

Jeanne Boatman & Judy Randall

The Lead Team has been meeting regularly, and our latest focus is to learn how BLLC can be a good neighbor. Our team members have been meeting with different helpers in our community to find out what they do and what they see as neighborhood needs around Polk County. Our team will be meeting again to compare and share with each other the information we've gotten. We're excited to learn more about our community and brainstorm ways we can be a good neighbor.

***If you do work around the church, let Randy Kelly know that you are doing it and it is completed.***
